

Michael S. Gouloff

Elevatus

A lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, Indiana, Mr. Gouloff got his start into architecture working as an intern for Schenkel & Shultz in 1967. He officially joined the firm in 1973 and quickly grew his presence and state registrations to include 20 states, becoming President in 1985. During his 30 year tenure, Mike worked on a variety of projects in the core markets and has always been a dedicated and active member of his community.

Having a unique opportunity to continue his passion and replant roots back in his hometown, Mike purchased the assets of the SchenkelShultz Fort Wayne office and rebranded the firm to Elevatus Architecture. A boutique design firm specializing in Education, Justice, Government and Community projects.

Today, as Elevatus' Senior Partner, Mike focuses his efforts on the strategic objectives with special attention to corporate vision and culture. The vast range of experience gives national perspective on the practice of architecture and the issues that clients are currently facing. Remaining true, Mike has a strong commitment to the community and has served on various philanthropic boards and commissions at both the state, local and national levels.

Mike continues his residence in Fort Wayne with his wife, Gretchen and enjoys family time with his 3 daughters and spoiling the grandkids.
