Says Eddie: "To really make a difference in kids' lives... to see them create that connection with their schools, to make sure they have the nourishment they need... it's really had a big impact on me and my family."

He thought the coolest thing he ever did was play golf on the coast of Oregon.

Until he filled up a backpack.

It's true. There's nothing much more beautiful to a golfer than playing the Bandon Dunes course. But if you've ever filled a backpack with food so a kid can eat over the weekend, you know how awe inspiring that is. And the amazing difference it makes in the lives of hungry kids.

Over 15 million kids in America don't have food to eat on the weekends. But you can help change that. Yes you.

So drop that driver and join us. Do the coolest thing ever. Find us at blessingsinabackpack.org.
